Ryan to join Senator Stamas

Former Bradstreet aide to be based out of Gaylord office

LANSING – State Sen. Tony Stamas today announced that Craig Ryan, chief legislative aide to outgoing state Rep. Ken Bradstreet, will join the Senate staff later this month. Ryan will be based out of the 36th Senate District Gaylord office.

“I am excited to have Craig on board. He brings a wealth of experience in assisting constituents with their concerns regarding state government,” Stamas said. “His extensive knowledge of the issues facing northern Michigan will be advantageous for the residents of the 36th district.”

Ryan has served as Bradstreet's chief legislative aide and district representative since 2000.

“Senator Stamas has done a great job representing northern Michigan in the Michigan Senate,” Ryan said. “I am looking forward to joining his team and being able to focus my efforts in helping him serve the residents in our area.”

A graduate of Gaylord High School, Ryan lives in Gaylord with his wife and three children.
